Governor:

The troops flight is delayed leaving Seattle by at least an hour and 10 minutes.

That means the flight would arrive about 10:38.

Will you want to go that late?

o Gross Revenue Exclusion for pipeline gas of 64% of the gross value of the prior to the application of the PPT for gas other than from Cook Inlet. Gas that needs to be transported over long distances has very different economics than oil.

I've been plagiarizing (not really - I'm giving you full credit) as we engage in these ACES town hall meetings with my reading of your column.

I don't think Alaskans were aware that state law was the enabler in this lack of communication problem between DNR and DOR. Thanks for doing a better job of pointing that out than we've been able to do.

Subject: JNU Chamber Invite

After the AOGA presentation today the executive director of JNU Chamber (Cathie Roemmich) came up to let me know that the gasline team is invited to speak at JNU Chamber on Thursday, November 1 (two Thursdays from today) on ACES. Cathie will get in touch with Joe if the administration is interested and/or has time to attend.

Kara Moriarty (deputy director of AOGA) showed a couple Revenue slides in her presentation and handed out AOGA fliers that quote Pat Galvin saying "Frankly, we have not said that ACES improves the investment climate. Clearly, there is going to be a larger state share and that isn't going to make the economics of projects better."

On a positive note, several good questions were asked. Murray Walsh spoke up, as did a couple others from the audience that were pro-administration and pro reviewing the current tax structure. One lady even said after a comment from Kara "it's erroneous to ask if private business owners want to be taxed 64% when oil companies aren't even taxed 64%"

The AOGA flier is attached.

Hi Cathie,

It was great to see you this week.

I saw that the deputy director of AOGA is speaking at the Juneau Chamber luncheon today. I hope Governor Palin's gasline team would also be invited to speak to your members in the near future to talk about ACES. The AOGA executive director is on record in opposition of changing the tax structure and it would be helpful, I think, for Juneau residents to hear both sides of the argument. Perhaps they've already been invited?

Thanks for your time,

Ivy

Governor,

I just spoke with David Keane who indicates that Martin Houston will speak with you whenever you wish to call today. David simply asked me to advise him at what time you intend to make the call so that he can ensure Martin is prepared to step out of corporate board meetings to take the call. Therefore, whatever time works for you is fine, just let me know and I'll get that information to BG.

David also said you should expect Martin to request a personal meeting with you. Martin will propose that he, Betsy Spomer and David Keane travel to meet with you personally next Thursday or Friday (October 25th or 26th) in Juneau, or whatever location might work for you. I believe Martin wants this meeting to ensure you are not upset with BG for making this decision to not participate in the AGIA process. This reinforces my belief that this is a long-shot, but I believe it is worth the effort.

I hope you received the e-mail I sent last night with the contact and background information. If you did not, I will send it again.

Thanks Governor,

Marty

§ The corrosion issue is great politics, but difficult administration. The corrosion issue was already fixed in the PPT law by making the first $.30 per BOE capital costs non-deductible. This was in lieu of the corrosion costs. This is easy to administer. Instead, adjust this figure.

§ The bill provides for more information sharing between DOR and DNR. This is good. However, the joint administration proposed is unnecessary.

§ I recommend no changes because PPT was a great upheaval. Now, you should focus on stability to attract investments. Wait until 2011 before changes are considered.

§ The economics of business investment are more important than government take and responding to corruption.

§ I applaud the administration's efforts to beef up the auditing.

§ Although the PPT and aggregation did not put Alaska in the category of a banana republic, another significant change would do so—especially for political purposes. It was 16 years since the previous major change. Wait until 2011.You don't have any good information yet upon which to make a dramatic change that will last for another 15 years.

Johnston is up now.
